How the Brink's® system works.

What happens when an intruder tries to enter a protected area of your home? As long as the Brink's Home Security® system is activated, your uninvited guest is greeted with a 90-decibel alarm.

You activate the system.

At the touch of a button the Brink's® system is activated and ready to signal the Brink's® monitoring center if trouble strikes.

The alarm sounds.

If a protected door or window is opened, the alarm sounds, letting the intruder know he's been discovered, and Brink's® is notified.

Brink's® 24-hour monitoring center receives the alarm signal.

The signal tells our monitoring center what area of your home triggered the alarm so our monitoring professionals can act.

Brink's® calls your home and the emergency agency.

Our monitoring professionals call your home to confirm there is a problem, and then contact the emergency agency, if necessary.
